

GETTING TO KNOW ...

IN THE YEAR 2020

..... what will a Pest Management Technician be like?

In 2020 global warming will be a reality. In the tropics pests will find human habitat more appealing. Less and less chemical-based pesticides will be manufactured or approved.

He (or she?) will be graded as a professional, better trained and more knowledgeable. Remuneration will be attractive but young talents are attracted to the industry because of the unusual challenges and excitement inherent in the job, and to provide a meaningful service.

Technology will play a bigger role. Prevention will be the battle cry and this will result in the job of "Pest Exterminator" being replaced by "Pest Neutraliser".
